

This prototype sketch should show what the website should look like when opening it.

This prototype sketch should what should happen if a user decides to choose a country, brief information about that country should show up, along with the graphs and charts, in order to see the graphs and charts the user has to scroll down.

This prototype sketch should show some of the graphs if the user decides to scroll down, for ex: some of them are about mortality rates and how much money the country has received from the world bank.
